

Airport Security

John Hook has been named director of compliance and professional standards at Gateway Security Inc. in Newark. In this role, he will design, develop and implement a new Gateway Security officer-training program. Hook is a retired New Jersey state police lieutenant and 30-year veteran of the state police. He also brings extensive experience to Gateway in the fields of education, security management and information technology.

